

YOUR VOTE WILL DETERMINE AMERICA'S FUTURE

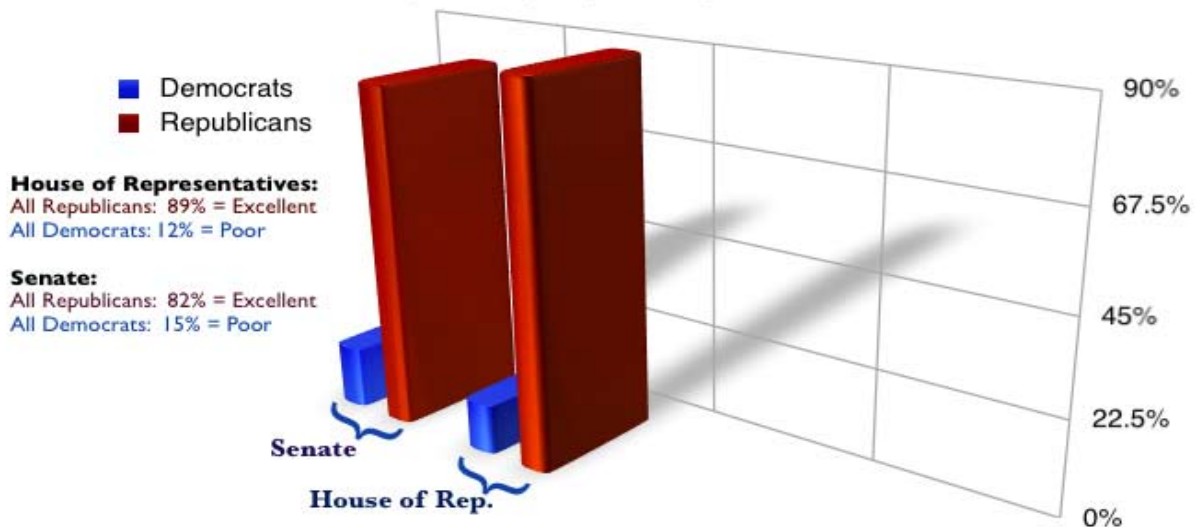

It's been said that Democrats and Republicans are interchangeable – that whoever we vote for, ultimately, we'll get the same thing. But an objective analysis of party voting patterns in Congress overwhelmingly refutes this.

Based on ratings by the non-partisan American Conservative Union (ACU -- founded in 1964), one party consistently votes for higher taxes, more spending, weak national defense and social chaos. The other party votes just as consistently for lower taxes, fiscal restraint, national security and family values.

The ACU based its rating of 25 key votes taken in the House and Senate in 2009, including: Economic Stimulus spending (so-called), a spending freeze, confirmation of Eric Holder as Attorney General, federal take-over of health care, missile defense and abortion funding.
